Her approach is simple and straightforward. She calls it Fuel, Fire and Blaze. The Fuel goals are the basic things you need to do on a day to day basis in order to reach your Blaze goals. The Blaze goals are the big, ambitious goals - what you are really wanting to achieve in life. In between the Blaze and Fuel goals are the Fire goals. The Fire goals are the intermediate steps between the day to day goals and the lifetime goals.

Blind ambition over blind optimism: Blind optimism is the intentional ignoring of the negative. This is what I refer to as the cult of positive thinking. Blind ambition is the hope that your own ambitions are possible in spite of all obstacles. In order to build resilience we have to be realistically optimistic. That is to observe the positive and the negative, do our best to problem solve to a realistic conclusion, all the while acknowledging that our ambitions are possible.
